COCHRANE IS HERO
Many Feared Lost in Ruins of Building

CLEVELAND, June 7.—A temporary office was established at the site of the fire blackened Ellington hotel today to register survivors as firemen demolished the tottering west wall preparatory of digging into the debris for more victims of the early morning holocaust known to have taken eight lives.

Registration of survivors was started by police in an effort to ascertain definitely the number of missing residents. Twenty five persons listed as living at the downtown apartment hotel had not appeared at the office at noon.

FEAR HIGHER TOLL
Work of combing the smoldering ruins or the west side of the building was expected to get underway this afternoon. Firemen expressed fear that many of those feared missing would be found crouched to death beneath tons of twisted steel, charred timber and brick.

Reports that eight persons were known to have been killed in the spectacular $500,000 fire and explosion were emphatically denied by fire and police officials. Only four bodies have been taken to the county morgue—one of which remained unidentified.

Fire Captain T. J. Grady of the first battalion in charge of the ruins and the destruction of the wall declared that no bodies had been sighted in the debris.

Lowery promised to pay $5 per month until the remainder of the fine is paid. He had served 178 days in jail, using up $269 of the fine at a rate of $1.50 a day. His balance at this time is $473.

The parole was signed by Judge Brown. Prosecuting Attorney E. L. Crist, Sheriff Charles Radcliff and the board of county commissioners John Hay, Marvin Dreisbach and Edgar Beatty.

BROOKHART IS DEFEATED

Veteran Iowa Statesman Running Behind; Democratic Vote To Be Record.

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 7.—Defeat of Senator Smith W. Brookhart in yesterday's primary election appeared certain today when returns from nearly three-quarters of the state showed him to be trailing Henry Field, Shenandoah merchant, by approximately 30,000 votes.

In 1,472 of the state's 2,435 precincts, Field polled 116,053 votes and Brookhart 85,999. Glen C. Haynes, of Des Moines, was third with 26,697.

In the gubernatorial race, Governor Dan Turner swept all opposition before him in an overwhelming victory. He had 88,040 votes in 799 precincts, leading Otto Lange, of Dubuque, nearly six to one.

The vote in the Democratic primary was expected to be in excess of 100,000 votes, the largest in Iowa's history. This was considered by politicians to be significant, in view of the coming general elections.

MORE SHOWERS EXPECTED HERE

Thundershowers were expected Tuesday to relieve the high temperature which Monday's rain failed to lower. A slight rain fell in Circleville at noon today but little effect on the temperature.

According to Dr. H. R. Clarke the temperature at noon was 80 degrees. Monday the mercury hit 85 degrees for the high mark and during the night fell to 70 degrees for a low mark.

A total of .70 of an inch of rain fell in and around Circleville Monday, with most of the rainfall coming in the afternoon.

Story Of "Pen" Blaze Is Told To Kiwanians

Joe D. Clear, Investigator For Fire Marshal, Tells Of Probe and of Its Results.

A story of the disastrous Ohio penitentiary fire two years ago was told members of the Kiwanis club and guests when Joe D. Clear, former deputy state fire marshal was the speaker.

Honor guests besides Mr. Clear were Charles Plum and Dorothy Riegel, awarded Kiwanis club keys for outstanding attainments in four years of high school work.

Pat J. Kirwin, president of the graduating class, and David L. Buchanan Jr., highest ranking student in the high school.

Mr. Clear told of word reaching Warden Preston E. Thomas' ears on Labor Day, 1929, that a break was contemplated wherein guards were to be "ganged" and their weapons taken from them after which a general break would result.

Warden Thomas "crossed" the convicts, Mr. Clear said, by having the guards enter the yard weaponless.

TELLS OF FIRE
Then came Easter of 1930 and the fire which started in a building under construction. The fact that a candle placed by incendiaries was a little too long raised the fire to start after the convicts had been returned to their cells for the night after having the evening meal.

It was planned to start the fire while everyone was in the dining hall with the result that a break would follow.

STATE TO LET LANCASTER-PK JOB JUNE 24

Work Within City Limits to Begin; Contract Calls for Use of Brick

3 TO DIVIDE COST

This, With Other Jobs, to Aid Unemployed

Highway work in the county, which is expected to greatly relieve the unemployment situation, was given added impetus Tuesday when the state highway department, directed by O. W. Merrell, announced that it will receive bids Friday, June 24, at 2 p. m. at the department office for the construction of the Circleville section of the Lancaster-pk.

Estimated cost of the project, which will begin at the foot of E. Main-st. and continue 2,166 feet eastward to the corporation limit, is $33,590.97, with the work divided into two contracts, the first for the general work, $25,908.37, and the second for providing brick with which to pave the highway, $7,682.60.

TO USE BRICK
According to the terms of the announcement of the project the roadway will be graded, storm drainage will be provided and a concrete base will be built before bricks will be placed.

The width of the highway will be 32 feet, the same as the roadway.

This project has been in the offing for the past two years but until this summer nothing definite had been done although the highway department promised a year ago that the highway would be rebuilt.

The city several weeks ago completed constructing a sanitary sewer on the street in preparation for the paving work.

USE LOCAL LABOR
It is expected that the contract will provide that not less than 60 per cent of Pickaway-co labor be employed as other contracts have specified. This clause was included in the contract let to Brewer and Brewer of Chillicothe who are doing work east of Williamsport but that firm has gone so far as to employ between 20 and 30 per cent more Pickaway-co men than the contract has called for.

Work was begun this week on resurfacing the Lancaster-pk east of the city corporation as far as Knight's Woods. This job is being done by W. H. Ringwald and Son of Chillicothe and a number of Circleville and Pickaway-co men were being employed.

DIVIDE COST
The newly-advertised project will be paid for by city, county and state with each city and county paying $5,000 as their share. The state will stand the remainder of the expense.

The injured person, Frank Tucker of Haddonfield, R. J. Knorr, Jr., 11, of Perth Amboy, N. J., and a baby, were taken to West Jersey hospital.

SUCCESSOR TO FESS PROBLEM

Several Names of Ohioans Prominently Mentioned to Conduct Campaign.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—President Hoover and his political board of strategy probably will come to an agreement within the next forty-eight hours on a man to succeed Senator D. Fess of Ohio as chairman of the Republican National committee.

This job will entail active direction of the President's campaign for reelection after the Chicago convention and Mr. Hoover and his aides are being torn between a number of conflicting forces in reaching a decision. The name of former Governor James P. Goodrich of Indiana was the latest to be injected into the speculation here.

From other quarters the report has come that Dr. James R. Garfield of Cleveland was slated to be chairman of the national committee at Chicago is under consideration.

It is known that the president is seeking if possible a midwestern business man whose energy could be directed especially toward money raising. Strategy of the campaign could be left to Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, who has handled the preservation campaign. Whether the chairmanship would be offered to James R. Garfield at present national treasurer is probable.

PASTOR MAY SEEK OFFICE

COLUMBUS, June 7.—Dr. Aaron S. Watkins, Lima pastor, is being urged to become a candidate for governor under the banner of the Prohibition party. It was learned today.

Prominent mention of Dr. Watkins' name in connection with the gubernatorial race was made as the prohibition party opened its state convention here. According to Prescott Gillilan, national committeeman, a well-defined movement is forming to back Dr. Watkins' nomination.

It is noted that Dr. Watkins would oppose Governor George White and David S. Ingalls, who are objectionable to strict drys, at the November elections.

REPORT THEFTS

Three reports of thefts have been received by the city police department.

Frank Davis S. Court-st. former sheriff, reported that someone entered his home and stole several cases of beverages.

The second report was from the Circleville Iron and Metal Co. where a Chevrolet 1927 had been stolen and the John Moore restaurant at Mid-st. was reported entered.

PAROLE BOARD TO HEAR PLEA FOR ADAMS. 38

Third Person to Die in Chair for Kidney Crime, Barring Clemency

HEARING IS SET

Attorneys Appear for Each Side

Final efforts to save the life of Lacey Adams, 38, colored, condemned to die in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary Friday evening for his part in the murder of John Kidney, will be made by attorneys before the board of paroles and pardons Wednesday at 2 p. m.

Attorneys appearing for Adams will be Ray W. Davis and F. N. R. Redfern while Emmitt L. Crist, prosecutor, and Irvin F. Snyder, will appear for the state.

While it isn't conceded that Adams has much of a chance to obtain clemency since Governor George White refused to intervene in the convictions of Walker Brown, colored, and Henry Loudermilk who died last Friday, the plan of Davis and Redfern has not been disclosed.

SUSTAINED BY COURT
Adams' conviction was termed legal by the district court of appeals with Judge Mauck rendering a decision sustaining Judge Joseph W. Adkins' court before the state had presented its side of the case. Judge Mauck with Judges Blower and Middleton decided that when

RETURN WARRANTS

Death warrants for Henry Loudermilk and Walker Brown, executed last Friday, have been returned to Ford M. Pickens, clerk of courts.

Lacey Adams admitted from the witness stand that he was a party in the crime he convicted himself. Judge Mauck even went so far as to say that Judge Adkins might have instructed the jury on only two possible verdicts—guilty as charged in the indictment or guilty as charged with recommendation for mercy although he included the possible finding of not guilty in his charge. Judge Adkins included possible not guilty finding in order to prevent any possible error that might appear in the case.

ADMITTED FACT

Adams made two alleged confessions of his part in the crime. He admitted at least two meetings at his home in Hanford Village which was attended by his co-conspirators. He told of having revolvers, borrowed from Franklin Smith, and of having a vial of chloroform which he said he gave to Walker Brown, although testimony of others claimed that Adams snapped chloroform in the faces of both John Kidney and his invalid sister, Sarah.

Governor White's decision in the Adams case will probably not be given until sometime Thursday or early Friday.

4 Ohio Athletes Figure To Make Olympic Team

COLUMBUS, 7.—Ohio has a golden opportunity to land three or four men on the United States team in the Olympic games this year, a survey of the state's athletic talent disclosed today.

Ohio State University stars dominate the list of possibilities, but Miami, Ohio Wesleyan, Case, Denison and Oberlin all have candidates, and one high school—Dayton Roosevelt—is to enter its ace.

The fact that one Ohio State candidate—Ted Lorber of Zanesville, a fencer—has already been awarded a place on the team that will represent the Stars and Stripes, has caused a boom in athletic ambitions.

SIMPSON BEST
George Simpson, the former Ohio State "fastest human," is probably the state's best bet, although Jack Keller, the Ohio State hurdler, and Don Hutson, former Denison sprinter, are prominently mentioned, also.

Simpson, now running under the colors of the Los Angeles athletic club, will get his crack at the Olympics. Four years ago he became ill after going to Boston for an Olympic qualifying meet and was not in shape to make a good showing.

The high school prodigy is a lad named Oliver, a crack young hurdler who is turning in phenomenal performances in pre-school meets.

Case has a long stepping high jumper in Barth, who finished second at the Penn Relays. He is an alumnus of Lakewood high school.

Ohio Wesleyan's threat is regarded as almost equal to Keller. At Oberlin, Sevis, a star miler, is considered an outside possibility.

GORDON TO RUN
A Miami man is already on the Pacific coast getting in shape for try-outs. He is Jimmy Gordon, a 44-year-old specialist.

Another Miami product, Sugart, is reckoned as a possibility in the 1500 meters and the steeplechase.

There is a possibility also that some of the glamor of the world's greatest athletic carnival may fall on two Ohio State rookies, Sprinter Don Bennett and Pole Vaulter "Whitey" Wonsowicz, who attracted their first attention outside the state in the Penn Relays.

Pete Rasmus, who was an Ohio State candidate in the discus throw four years ago, also is to try this year.

Rasmus is said to be throwing the discus around 150 feet, which is a good throw, and is believed by his former coaches to be a possible comeback.

ROTARIANS MEET AT CHILLICOTHE
A large number of local Rotarians attended the meeting of all the clubs in the 22nd District at Chillicothe Monday evening and heard a splendid talk by Vash Young of New York city.

About 200 were in attendance representing 23 clubs in the 22nd District of Rotary.

SOURCE OF POISON LIQUOR IS HUNTED

SPRINGFIELD, June 7.—An intense search was conducted throughout Springfield's shadowed liquor which has resulted in death to five men.

The victims died, according to police, after drinking the liquor on a week-end party. An analysis of the liquor, it was said, revealed that it contained denatured alcohol.

Three of the victims died Sunday and two yesterday. They were: Emmer Randolph, 38; Andrew Scott, 59; Charles West, 38; LeRoy Barnes, 52, and John Wiggins, 46.

Just before that, he was credited with having inspired the national relief program offered by Senator Joseph T. The man who drafted the European reparations plan bearing his name, aided by Dawes. It was argued Mr. Hoover could make an effective non-partisan gesture by appointing him. The two are conversant with each other's ideas, as Young participated in the White House conference eight days ago at which the President assembled the Democratic leaders of the Senate.

Another name mentioned was that of Elias H. Strawn, the Chicago attorney who has figured prominently as an advisor to the last two administrations. Strawn has just retired as president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. Before that, he headed the American Bar Association. President Coolidge would have made him Attorney General, but for political considerations of the moment.

Damage consisted of almost complete loss of stock in a dozen stores located in the first floor of the building, damaged to the structure and the personal losses of the residents in the hotel.

woman whose badly charred body was at the morgue. Other identified dead were Mrs. Anna Mitchell, 70, char woman, and C. W. Wernick, a bank guard.

Investigation of the death dealing explosion which wrecked the entire front of a barber supply shop in the first floor of the six-story brick building spreading a sheaf of flames over the entire structure was started today by the arson squad of the fire department.

GAS THOT CAUSE
A leaking gas valve was generally accepted as the cause of the blast. An odor of gas throughout the building yesterday was recalled today by several persons.

Difficulty in tracing the survivors to determine the exact number of missing developed into residents who escaped the blazing structure down fire ladders or into safety nets scattered in all directions.

Fifty-two persons including three firemen were taken to hospitals but all except twelve were released. Plans for aid mingled with the din of clanging ambulances and screaming fire and police sirens as the residents fought for breath from windows. Their rooms were filled with smoke and flames already were licking through the corridors.

Mickey Cochran, catcher for the Philadelphia Athletics, was one of the first rescuers on the scene. With Cy Peterson, Philadelphia newspaperman, he rescued three girls and an aged violin player before firemen arrived.

LADDERS HOISTED
A score of ladders were quickly hoisted to all floors of the building and more than 10 residents were carried to safety. At least another score jumped into life nets.

Firemen reached Mrs. Mitchell's room too late to save her. She had screamed for help but the flames reached her before the firemen did and she fell back into her flaming room, her clothing blazing. Wernick was brought out by firemen after the blaze was under control.

Damage consisted of almost complete loss of stock in a dozen stores located in the first floor of the building, damaged to the structure and the personal losses of the residents in the hotel.

Story Of "Pen" ROCKEFELLER JR. FAVORS REPEAL

Mr. Clear vividly told of conditions inside the pen that fatal night of some of the scenes of the screaming convicts and of efforts of some of the 'cons' to prevent fire men from extinguishing the flames.

He then went to his investigation, as a member of the fire marshal's office, to learn the cause of the blaze and after working for quite a while, finally eliminating the contention that faulty wiring caused the blaze, he learned from a 'stool pigeon' the names of men who planned the fire.

He told of 'working on' Jimmy Raymond, an Akron convict who he learned was a weak person and finally of Raymond expressing willingness to talk. Raymond told his story and the next morning was found hanging, a suicide, in his cell.

OBTAINED CONFESSIONS
Difficulty in obtaining confession from Clinton Grate and Hugh Gibbons, the 'brains' of the arson gang, was told by Mr. Clear. Finally both confessed and after repudiating their stories before the grand jury in session they admitted their tales and were sentenced to life imprisonment.

Grate has eight years to serve on his regular sentence before beginning his life term, and Gibbons has nine years to serve before he becomes a 'lifer.'

A number of interesting experiences were related by Mr. Clear who now is a member of the state board of optometry.

Mr. Clear vividly told of conditions inside the pen that fatal night of some of the scenes of the screaming convicts and of efforts of some of the 'cons' to prevent fire men from extinguishing the flames.

He then went to his investigation, as a member of the fire marshal's office, to learn the cause of the blaze and after working for quite a while, finally eliminating the contention that faulty wiring caused the blaze, he learned from a 'stool pigeon' the names of men who planned the fire.

He told of 'working on' Jimmy Raymond, an Akron convict who he learned was a weak person and finally of Raymond expressing willingness to talk. Raymond told his story and the next morning was found hanging, a suicide, in his cell.

unspeakably worse than those which prevailed "before," Rockefeller said.

He declared that repeal of the eighteenth amendment was a prerequisite to the abolition of the law's evils and for restoration of respect for law.

Returning the liquor problem to the states would best insure adequate and proper control of the traffic in the interest of temperance and at the same time safeguard the normal liberty of action of the individual," said Rockefeller.

He concluded: "My hope is that the tremendous efforts put forth in behalf of the eighteenth amendment by millions of earnest, consecrated people will be continued in effective support of practical measures for the promotion of genuine temperance. To that cause my own efforts will ever be devoted."

In one part, Rockefeller listed the aggregate contributions to the Anti-Saloon league made by his father and himself as $350,000.

"THE LOVE TRAP"

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

COPYRIGHT BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS
Pretty Mary Kennedy breaks her engagement to the elderly but wealthy sports promoter, Buck Landers when she falls in love with his young ward, Steve Moore. Landers kidnaps Steve and threatens to frame him unless Mary marries Landers. Mary flirts with Landers' henchman, Bat, to gain his confidence. She learns of Steve's whereabouts and goes there alone. In a dingy flat, Mary is confronted by two thugs who deny all knowledge of Steve. They hold her and phone Landers. Landers arrives and orders his men out. When Landers refuses to leave, Mary shoots at him, but misses. He flees. Steve confesses to Mary that he is engaged, but he loves her. Mary has misgivings when Steve plans a visit to Eileen Calvert, his fiancée, to explain the situation.

CHAPTER XXXIII

MARY, staying at her sister's place in Brooklyn after Steve had gone, lived in a state of faith. Steve would come back to her. Eileen Calvert, with her wealth and beauty—Mary assumed the other girl possessed both—would have no power to weaken Steve's love. She tried to hold these thoughts fast in her mind. If she continued to think them then they would be true, but her confidence was not founded upon her own charms; her whole faith centered around the love Steve bore her. She could close her eyes and see him close her eyes and still feel the magic of his kisses.

She told her sister and father nothing of Steve. Merely, she said, she had quit her job over in New York and would be with them for a while until she found another. Without much trouble she could obtain some sort of work in Brooklyn, and so it developed. An employment agency found her a place in the office of a big insurance company. This, though, was a mechanical aspect of life that scarcely held her attention; she could do satisfactory work by instinct alone, even while her upper mind was filled with dreams of Steve. She wrote him long encouraging letters, and when his first one to her arrived, she touched the paper with a kiss before reading it.

"What can I tell you, my lovely one, that I've not said to you before?" he wrote. "When I think of your goodness to me, and your bravery, my heart simply melts. All the way up on the train, I kept thinking how fine you were, and what a nerve I have to assume to take care of you through life, when you certainly deserve a million things that I am not able to give you. You see, Mary darling, I simply want the best of everything for you, now and always. Do you mind waiting till I can buy you limousines and yachts? If I have enough brain in my head to earn such things, they will all be at your disposal. I'll park them all in front of you like children's toys. But all that luxury, I'm afraid is a long way off. I haven't had a chance to talk to Bill yet about my business future. Nor have I had a suitable opportunity to break the news to Eileen that I'm in love with you. As a matter of fact, I've scarcely seen her alone since I've been here. We played tennis this morning, and went horseback riding this afternoon."

Tonight I sneaked off to my room to pen you this hasty note. Please don't worry about anything, Mary, and I'm not going to worry either. I know everything is going to be perfectly fine for us. I don't even worry about Buck Landers—because I know he has shot his bolt and is through. All the same, I want you to keep out of his vicinity and stay exclusively in Brooklyn, if it isn't too much of a hardship. A million kisses, darling, and good night."

The Daily Horoscope

Monday, June 6, 1932

This is a day when the truly social element is emphasized. The dominant note in all human relations would appear to be the desire for harmony. The milk of human kindness should flow freely at this time. Under today's indications we may look for a new interest in matters of style and fashion. All that ministers to the love of beauty is brought to the fore. The fine arts receive added attention. New delicacies appear on the market. Personal adornment and matters of decoration occupy people's minds. Beauty parlors, dealers in cosmetics, jewelers, photographers and florists may look for an increase in business.

Noon time is a most favorable period for these matters. A time to call on friends, make new acquaintances and extend all social contacts. This beneficent note continues during the afternoon and evening. Those who work in the creative arts may find this to be a beneficial day. They may now touch new chords in the realm of beauty and find people most responsive. Pleasurable activities are likely to be prominent during the evening. A splendid time for family gatherings and quiet social entertainments.

Children whose birthday this is are impulsive and quick mentally. They have considerable energy and force of character. They love deep and crave love in return. They sympathize with the suffering of others and are always ready to help. These children have strong intuitions, which, as a rule, they can safely follow. They are energetic and enthusiastic at times but quickly lose these qualities when their mood changes.

night. I'll write tomorrow and I'll be waiting with a high fever for the first letter from my beloved girl.

STEVE.

That night she wrote him from the fullness of her heart: "Steve, this is to tell you that I'm living in love, I actually am. It is food and drink to me, and when I breathe my lungs are full of it. Does that sound foolish? I would like to write in letters of fire in front of you, so you could see it forever and never forget it. I LOVE YOU. Just close your eyes and see if you can imagine those three words in front of you like a big electric sign in gold letters."

She arrived from the office and still there was no letter.

could write a hundred pages like this, without changing the subject. While you are gone, I will think of you by day and dream of you by night. But hurry back as soon as you can, darling. I am waiting in a wonderful trance! MARY."

She went to a corner letter box and posted it. Tomorrow it would be in his hands, and he would be reading it! Next morning she was all eagerness to read the letter she would find waiting for him. But he had not written; at least, no letter had arrived.

Throughout the day at the office she thought of him, with her mind shifting, occasionally, to Eileen Calvert.

She arrived from the office and still there was no letter.

"Do you really love me, Steve? I want you to tell me that you do—I couldn't possibly get tired of hearing it over and over."

"I'm surprised to find that I can endure your absence without too much unhappiness, because I think so much about you that it seems you are almost at my elbow every minute. Sometimes when I'm all alone, I am almost happy that you have gone away long enough for me to have time to realize how beautiful it all is. When you are with me, I'm always so fidgeting and excited that I can't really appreciate anything."

"I could write you a lot of things about what I'm thinking and the plans I'm making—but what's the use? The only important fact is that I love you so much more than I can express. You will find the right way to handle your affairs with the Calverts, darling, and you must do it in your own way. And your way, Steve, will always suit me, whatever you do. Just so that I know you will go on loving me, I don't care much what else happens. Do you realize, my loved one, how completely a girl gives herself to a man when she truly loves him? I mean that you own all of me—every bit there is—and I want you to know that I haven't a wish or thought apart from your desires."

"Am I too bold in telling you all this, Steve? I hope you won't think so. I am not ashamed of this perfectly gorgeous love that has come to me, and why should I be ashamed to admit it frankly? You see, I am trying with all my might to make you understand how deep it is. I vert. Last night—or was it two nights ago?—he probably had told Eileen that he could never marry her. It would be difficult for Steve with his kindly nature to utter the fatal words.

Mary actually felt a keen sorrow for Eileen. It was no use being jealous of a girl who was suffering such a tragic disappointment. Besides, she was rich and charming and, really, she wouldn't have any trouble finding another suitor. Of course, it was impossible that Eileen could love as deeply as Mary! No one on earth had ever loved like this before. Why, actually and literally, she would walk into fire for Steve! But Eileen would take it gracefully; the beautiful dark eyes would dim for a moment with despair, and then she would realize that Steve had never really belonged to her at all. Both of them would understand that they had not actually loved—it had merely been a boy-and-girl affair. Mary hoped that Steve would be very gentle and dignified—it would be much easier if he kept that attitude. She imagined she could trust him not to get sentimental and give Eileen a farewell kiss, or anything like that. Not that it really mattered—but it would be better all around if he didn't.

She arrived home from the office and still there was no letter. That night the family went to a movie, but she remained home in the hopes of a special delivery; but none came. Before the others came back, however, she had a telegram from the Catskills.

At The Grand

Besides its peppy dialogue and its ludicrous situations, several musical novelty numbers are introduced as a part of the entertainment in the club house scenes of "Stepping Sisters," the Fox comedy, coming to the Grand Theater.

One of these numbers, "Look Here Comes a Rainbow," with words and music by James Hanley, has already become one of the popular hits of the day and another also composed by Hanley, "My World Begins and Ends with You," is likewise a hit.

"Stepping Sisters," depicting the adventures in society of three former burlesque queens, is brought to the screen by a cast that includes such favorites as Louise Dresser, Minna Gombell, Jobyna Howland, William Culler Sr., Howard Phillips, Ferdinand Munier, Stanley Smith and Barbara Weeks. The picture was directed by Seymour Felix.

Omitting Vacation Not Economy for One in Danger of Nerve Fatigue

Run-Down Condition of the Nervous System, If Allowed to Continue, May Bring On Some Serious Disease from Which Recovery Is Slow and Difficult.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

"NERVE fatigue" is a term used to describe a run down condition of the nervous system. It is often incorrectly used by the layman to describe a condition of simple nervousness which in this case may or may not be a symptom of nerve fatigue.

The body performs its daily work by reason of energy derived chiefly from carbohydrates and starches in the diet. This energy material is stored in the muscles and liver in the form of a substance called glycogen, which is released for active work by nerve impulses sent to the muscles and liver. Work can be accomplished only by the "burning up" of glycogen. Labor too long continued will make excessive demands upon the nerve impulses, and nerve exhaustion will result.

Fortunately, ordinary nerve fatigue can be relieved by short periods of rest, but complete nerve exhaustion requires several months or longer for recovery. Indeed, the human body can survive much longer without food than it can without rest or sleep.

Nerve fatigue can develop into a serious condition, the mechanism of the body becoming seriously disturbed. Indigestion, inflammation, the large intestines, constipation, insomnia and constitutional weakness often are caused by prolonged nerve fatigue.

Rest is often the only treatment necessary to restore health, and is best prescribed in the form of a vacation. A vacation is a health investment, and it is often more economical to take a vacation than be forced to prolonged rest because of physical exhaustion.

In good health we live longest and enjoy ourselves most, and this desirable state can exist only when we give the body the necessary care and rest. But to get sick and rest. But to get sick and rest. But to get sick and rest.

If you are worried, do not feel up to par, are easily irritated or apprehensive and tired, I beg of you not to disregard these signs. The best thing is to consult with your physician.

NEWS OF HOMES AND HOME FOLKS

Published by STEVENSON'S

VOL. 3 NO. 23

Tuesday, June 7, 1932

"Ah, ha," said some climbing posies at a certain home on W. Franklin-St., "here's something on which we can ramble."

This remark was overheard by the lady of the house after she placed some of our trellises for the convenience of her flowers. Yes, she read in last week's RTT that we were offering our stock of garden trellises at a discount of 20 per cent off regular price. How about your climbers? Are they satisfied with the arrangement you have provided for them? Ask them. If they fail to comment on their satisfaction, it will indicate that they are so disgusted that they refuse to talk to you. Next, journey down to our store and make your selection. We have two patterns in the 17½ in. x 8-ft. and three patterns in the 35 in. x 8-ft. size. They are made of spruce, beautifully designed and painted pure white. Prices, after deducting the discount, start at $1.60 and end at $2.48. We believe that these low prices are so low that you can't afford to "monkey" with home-made devices.

Other pieces for the lawn that are included in the price reduction consist of sweet-pea trellises, 40x54, at $1.08. A beautiful garden seat, in pure white, formerly selling at $8.45, now we'll take $6.86; flower boxes (for your porch) $1.44 and $2.40; a very graceful and beautiful gate-way at $14.98 that formerly was priced at $17.60. As our stock is limited, and our prices so low that we can't afford to make further purchases, sales are subject to present stock on hand.

We'll bet our bottom dollar that a lot of folks wished that they had some of our beach chairs and gliders on their porch last Friday night when it was so uncomfortably warm. Well, at the present low level of prices, it would seem that every porch in the community should be blessed with one or more pieces of such furniture. Drop in at once and be prepared for the hot evenings that are sure to be with us very soon.

The fact that our sales in floor coverings for the past five months have exceeded those for the same period last year makes us believe that we have some mighty good patterns and prices. In fact, we've heard customers say that our stock was the nicest that they have seen. No, we're not bragging, we're just telling you what others have said.

We have it on very reliable authority that whole tribes of clothes moth have recently been eliminated in Roundtown, due to the use of our KEYSpray. How about those that reside in your home? Are you tempting them with woolen and fur garments? That's the kind of food that they like. Spray such articles as clothing, furniture, rugs, and piano felts with KEYSpray and stop your worries. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. You carry insurance against fire, why not insure against moth damage.

In spite of the fact that the hottest days of the summer are just around the corner, we've decided to throw our stock of ALCAZAR gasoline-pressure cook-stoves and ranges on the market at a 20 per cent reduction. Having sold this make for many years, we have no hesitancy in recommending them to our customers as being perfectly satisfactory. This reduced price applies only to our present stock. In other words, first come, first served.

Folks may think that the wooden porch swing, and the tall lawn swing, have passed into disuse. Far from it, come down 148 W. Main and we'll show you differently. For good old fashioned comfort, with no worries about getting the cushions wet, get a wooden swing. One went out Saturday to a man from near Amanda. It'll give comfort to this family for many years.

Charley Brower, a former conductor on the S. V. T., once told a young man to keep his head inside the window. The young man replied that he'd keep his out if he wanted to. Charley told him, "Alright, but if you break any of the iron work on the bridges you'll pay for it."

Do you inhale? Of course you do. Every smoker breathes in some part
